Challenges

- Using multiple templates to load information was inefficient, and the data validation was poor. A lot of time was spent trying to identify errors in the documents.

How did GCON4 MFL help?

- Performing large-scale information updates is undeniably one of the biggest benefits. The ability to extract the data and update it in an Excel document is incredibly practical, as it allows for error correction before they are applied directly in the system.

“GCON4 MFL was essential for our data migration process from the various software systems previously used. This played a key role in achieving high levels of success in the UNIT4 ERP implementation.”
